I can identify with you there. To pay off debts to my parents from some legal issue. I have to work for them this week during my spring break (fun!). That's where the boredom sets in. I get here at 8 am and have to stay here until closing at 5 pm. 9 hours of fun! There are some things that can be done to take up time, but for the most part, there is nothing to do and no ringing phones to answer. So I get to sit in front of this computer and do pretty much whatever until more work in QuickBooks is available.
