CrimsonInteresting how you keep changing your story. Nothing you say qualifies me as a grief player who enjoys cheating. I'm not going to respond to your pointless accusations when there is plenty of evidence to the contrary on my intentions.

I have been a part of this community since the first day of the beta test and I have never been against RenGuard or its players. And for most people, my actions speak far louder than my words ever could.

I'm not changing my story, however, you're slowly admitting to more of it. I've been a part of this months before beta, but let's not get into a pissing contest. Point is you ruined a game, isn't that what grief players do? Or do you have a different definition over there? By the way, being against RenGuard isn't some sort of sin, as you make it out to be...
