IRON-FARTI used to know some good ones that would tell you the adress it came from. But I can't find those ones anymore.

I know some services can even get you a map of the area.

Zone Alarm can automatically map, but thats only if it blocks some information of something like a ping from the source.

There is also a program called VisualRoute that you might want to look into.

VR is a very good program. I recommend it to anyone.
