Oh I have been around awhile.

Long enough to remember the frustration of not being able to register on the boards, and only be able to watch in vain....

I also remember trying to get into HS way back, and the frustration of Beacon-Leave exploits, as well as the giddiness of the flying patch coming out with those two extra maps.

And then there was that whole -WL- thing.... :rolleyes:

I also remember when Shane the pain established the pitts as a response to the beacon-leave, and asked for a core group of members to help report, and moderate a clean server. I was one of those founding members. Think I was #6 or so. I haven't been back since it turned into a huge site.

I remember Raveshaw, and Duke ruining many a topic....

And I remember Blazer's Dusty Black car.....

Yeah, I have been around a while.
