Crimson, I know you try to be nice and all, but Alkaline is like a really bad cancer. No matter how much therapy you go through, it keeps coming back and the only alternative is to have it removed surgically.

Or you could look at it this way, he's like a non-cancerous tumor. Doesn't matter if it is life threatening, it's still better to have it removed than to have to keep dealing with it until it does become a problem.
