Stryders bot although new is very good....he's still working on it, but i guess that's a common thing. If i get given the exact dates i will make myself available to police the channel in the IRC, if you are in the tourney and encounter problems just type either host, help or Clare (yes my name) as all of those are highlighted, i will then use our page system to communicate with you. Also remember that some players entering the tourney are mods on UGIN themselves so any problems that arrise while they are in game they can either deal with on the spot or be sneaky and use the IRC. Either way we will do our very best to ensure that the tourney is fun and entertaining for all who choose to enter.

No we dont have renguard on the server, this maybe annoying or off putting to those who have become used to or felt safer with renguard on the servers, but for the moment we have held that off due to our network growing in random ways as we are new we cant exactly predict what will be there tomorrow or not, and one of the server owners (bless him) is a bit tempremental
