im from the uk also and i have 1 red disc and 2 green....my other red disc cracked and gave way like that about 10 months ago so my brother bought another game....But i just use the green disc anyway to play and it works fine, although i believe our disk drive was unharmed, but my brother removed it, opened it up and removed the bits himself, it might be worth removing the cd drive opening it and turing it upside down like my brother did, just remeber what goes where when you take it out so you can put it back.

Although i actually think my green disk is now on the verge too, it has a huge crack down the centre and will more than likely throw me to desktop when i leave a server or lose connection to the net. (never trust a wireless network) :rolleyes:
