Moving to a bigger host when the time come's, Yes I will, becouse Iv'e been looking all over the net for a forum that offers things like this. I havnt found a thing. My forum is more then a place to chat and discuss, its gonna be a place where members are actualy interactive with the site.

Ive been away for a week or 2, so in that time I could advertise. But even then, you can't get a million ppl to visit and register in one month. That will take more then a month. It will take multiple months before the forum is actualy on the role. Thats the case with every new starting site.
