cokemasterIRON-FARTCalling people "assrammers" won't get you anywhere. :rolleyes:

Just make you sound lame.

So does correcting people over pointless things.

The only pointless thing around here is n00bs like you! You see a program on the internet that is suppose to be all good and you download it. Then your stuck with it cause your to lazy to unistall it and you get all boasted up with it. Then the cockyness gets started and yes you cant keep your head out of others you know what. Your now so hiped up on the thing that all you know how to do is copy what others say and follow them around.

I know this as a fact. I own a site that once the second beta is released will be bigger than renegade. I know what I'm talking about. When my site was open I had to close MSN becuae people asking me so many questions. People get hyped up and stubborn and stay that way.

Thought I would add that the only reason I didn't finish some of my sentences with what I normally would is because crimsons waiting for a reason to ban any black-cell mods.
