

---

Subject: Why British Coppers are funny

Posted by npsmith82 on Wed, 28 Apr 2004 19:46:32 GMT

View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

---

Kytten9That's just Wales for you....English coppers arent funny...i got caught speeding once near manchester Airport by a copper he pulled me over (i was doing 110mph in a 70mph zone) and said "having trouble taking flight madam?"

I laughed.....he didnt...

Hahah, now that's a good one! But damn i feel sorry for ya.

My parents were pulled over two weeks ago for doing just 97mph average in a 70mph zone, in the TVR (top speed 185+ mph btw).

<http://www.thecodesmith.com/images/temp/tvr350c.jpg>

This picture shows the arse end of the same car but not ours, but OMFG is that nice? With that personalised plate and the paintjob - it's just stunning.

http://www.thecodesmith.com/images/temp/tvr350c\_targa.jpg

If she was going just 1 or 2 MPH more she would've lost her licence and as a result, probably her job too. Luckily she got away with just getting 3 points on.

---