SS217Black-Cell is working on a server-side anti-cheat, but you don't really need one with good 'ol moderation, which crimson79 seemed to lack when Black-Cell was linked to NS.

If any server admin besides Black Cell thinks that their server operates fine the way it is, so be it. But I personally do not want my moderators tied up with every cheat accusation made. I want my moderators to be able to play, not babysit.

And what does my sniper server have to do with being linked to my IRC network???? I would think in your case you wouldn't want to bring up that time since it invites reminders of you giving out my old hub IP to a bunch of DDoS botnet owners.
