

---

Subject: Why British Coppers are funny

Posted by MrBob on Thu, 29 Apr 2004 00:17:13 GMT

View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

---

AircraftkillerThe actual humor is that it's absurd for ANYONE to need a fucking "racial equality commission."

Fuck that shit, let society work itself out, "omg lets make everyone equal when they're obviously not!" :rolleyes:

Agreed.

Anyway, like IRON-FART said, in America a cop isn't required (in most cases) to pull you over for speeding. The police here usually pull over people who do the "in and out" driving.

Chances are if you go 10+ mph over the speed limit you may get pulled over. It all depends where you are. If you're going 75+ mph in a 65 mph zone on I-95 in VA (really busy), you probably won't get pulled over. However, if you're going 35 mph in a 25 mph zone, you will most likely get pulled over. I think the most strict places when it comes to driving are empty roads (like 301 or I-64), small rural towns, military bases, and work zones.

---