No, equality is for the government and how it relates to the US.

Equality is not a universal human standard or quality, if it was, we'd all look, dress, act, and speak alike.

Learn to embrace being human instead of try to be what you aren't. Being human also includes disliking others for reasons beyond "idiocy" or anything intellectual, it can also include how someone looks, acts, or really anything at all.

So what? Is it bad to dislike others? No, not really. Is it bad to attack people and try to hurt them? Yeah, it is.

Let the government treat everyone equally, since we all pay taxes (Or we're supposed to, anyway), but stay the fuck out of social affairs and let people talk how they want to.
