The Orca can't carry a fucking GAU-8/A, the damn thing is bigger than a Volkswagen car! Only the A-10A is meant to be fitted with that cannon.

Please stop posting bullshit spam in the forum, Seaman.

The Apache's cannon range is 50 meters shorter than the Orca's - that's a huge difference in combat and puts the Apache at a disadvantage. I should know because I've been the victim of being hit from a large distance away by Orca cannon fire while I'm not close enough to do anything about it except get hammered.

Making the Orca and Apache different in air combat and in ground support will make the game feel different, at the very least, including balancing it out better so you're not forced to have the same exact unit on both teams, just with a different look.
