

---

Subject: A Letter from Michael Moore to George W. Bush on the Eve of Posted by Carl on Fri, 21 Mar 2003 17:59:13 GMT

View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

---

CrimsonNow Carl contradicts his own statement that the markets were on the rise when Clinton left office. Using his own statements, that would mean that the markets rose as he left office because people were looking forward to having Bush in office. But that contradicts what he said later.

Conclusion: Carl doesn't know what he's talking about.

Err, rather i use the term 'left office' on to broad of a position. I didnt mean the span of like one month. to me a president might as well leave office 6 months beforehand, because its historically a fact that a president is basically powerless in the last 6 months, due to the fact that everyone just waits for the new president. its called the 'lame duck' effect. You have yet top provide one example of how he fucked the economy.

---