Aircraftkiller Making the Orca and Apache different in air combat and in ground support will make the game feel different, at the very least, including balancing it out better so you're not forced to have the same exact unit on both teams, just with a different look.

I agree with this and totally support the idea that they should have more then only a different look. But I should keep 2 weapons on each vehicle. I don't really care how you guys do it as long as you keep a normal and ALT fire.
