"Intelligence lies not in knowing everything, but in knowing that you do not know everything."

It's very rare to see a person who can claim to be the best at something who actually is the best at it. If you believe yourself to be unbeatable, you're in for one hell of a bad day when someone beats you. Always assume that your opponent is better than you are. If there's one thing I've learned in gaming, it's that the best players are usually those that do not brag about their skill.
