Okay, here's my two cents.

Havoc and Sakura are snipers, right? Well, let's see. Kane, in one of the videos in the original C&C (in particular, the mission briefing for the mission where you have to kill the scientist) refers to the Commando as a sniper. Havoc and Sakura are thus both Commandos and snipers (as Havoc was clearly intended to be a 'Commando'-style unit and Sakura is just Nod's equivalent to Havoc). Now, let's look at the C&C Commando. He pwns infantry from long range, but has a hard time killing even a Nod Buggy, even though he outranges it. He can't shoot at aircraft at all. To make it similar to C&C, the Ramjet should indeed be able to take out people in one (preferably two or more, to require snipers to actually aim for the head) shot, but it should do virtually zero damage to even the lightest of vehicles. This includes aircraft.
