cokemasterl agree with you PointlessAmbler, but I know Deathgod won't.

He seems to want to keep the game unbalanced.

It must be cool to make multiple accounts to spam threads because you have nothing useful to say.

If by unbalanced, you mean the way it is, then yes. I think it's fine. Any problems people have killing snipers are related to poor strategy, as I have said in many other threads. We tried a little experiment with camping Sakuras in an interclan game the other night, and while the two sakuras were able to down an orca, one of the saks died, and the other was killed by one of our team's snipers. Amazingly, our sniper survived because the sakuras were too busy looking at my orca. So, we made them spend 2K to our 900 credits. The use of a support unit with my orca is good strategy. Taking on multiple snipers with one air unit is bad strategy.
