I'm emotion-less most of the time, media killed my emotions, not to mention all the stuff that happened earlier in my life (losing father)...Just kidding, I barely smile when I'm not inter-acting with someone else. You could nickname that a "bossy attitude".

By the way, it's mostly hard to figure how old a teenager is on a picture, I don't understand why I don't get the same shaving effect than most adults, maybe it's something with my skin, I personally have no idea.
