havocsnipeThe only "violation" was the al Samoud Missile which when tested WITHOUT THE WEIGHT OF A GUIDANCE SYSTEM AND WARHEAD exceeded its allowed range by 15 miles.

So first you say if the inspectors found nothing there isn't anything, then you disagree with the almighty inspectors' findings. Great job contradicting your position.

There were other factors to consider in that test, such as missile trajectory increasing the range even further. Iraq just tried to hype up the part about the guidance system and warhead.
