well, i think i found my problem.

We have a UPS, and i didnt notice that my father put it right next to the computer. That makes the side of the PC Case go very hot and thus making the inside hot too.

I opened my case today and i am running with it opened as we speak. The current remperature HD1 is 42C and HD0 is 31C so i think its good...

Ill run it for some time and see what happens. Keep your fingers crossed
