More and more servers today are adding the a1 or a11 or something in front of their server names to get people joining them... My server name begins with a C and I am half way down the list

Another thing I have noticed is 9/13 servers (CURRENTLY) are empty. Most of them are empty around the clock as well.

Is it really necessary to bump the servers like that?   If people keep going down, then people will keep TRYING to go up and we are going to get hostnames like a0000000 :rolleyes:
