xC4pRoXSpoony what are you doing man, every member of FUD is probably graduated from law school. There's no way you can win an online argument against them, whatever little flaw they find in your posts after reading them for the 10th time they will use against you. And it just keeps going, sadly that's the only thing they can win, online arguments...

Except that since we're all lawyers, we pull down the phatty bucks every year while you're stuck working at BK for minimum wage with the rest of your family. I suggest you can it, queer.

Spoony, I find it amusing you keep bringing up an error I made when I was writing pages at 2 AM. If all you can do is bring up an error that I fixed as soon as I was informed of it that was made when I was half-coherent, I feel that the rest of our points are unassailable, and as such you might as well stop posting in this thread. In fact, someone can lock this thread for all I care because it wasn't intended to do anything but start a flame war in the first place.
