You know AK, you just wasted time by posting here. Also I only watch Tech TV while Excersizing to improve my self. alsoon the weekends when I have free time. I am quite able to and do get my chores done such as taking care of my pets, cleaning dishes, cooking, general cleanign around my house, mowing the lawn. taking care of the pool I have, helping fix up the basement so it can be my bedroom, and keeping my grades up, the lowest grade I got all year was B- because I didn't do half the homework in that class. So please do not say that we are all wasting our time watching Tech TV and not doing anything around our houses because I am, and I am sure that there are others that do as well. And don't say anything about me not doing anything to help my neighborhood either because I was in Boy Scouts for 4 years, from 4th - 8th grade, then I quit due to always having the same old campouts, and service projects year after year, but now they are changing it up so next year I will be rejoining. And if you would like proof I can show you pictures of me doing most of these things.
