

---

Subject: GJ USA

Posted by KIRBY098 on Mon, 24 Mar 2003 14:45:45 GMT

View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

---

PiMuRhoKIRBY098 This is very sad. Remember this though, England:

Two of your own pilots rammed each other in helos, killing one of ours too. It happens. It's part of being a warrior.

and one of yours crashed the night before, killing 8 UK and 4 US marines.

This isn't a pissing contest of who kills the most friendlies. My point is simply this:

Friendlies get killed because people run the equipment. Humans make mistakes. This incident (patriot) wasn't human error, but the others were.

If you give a bunch of humans weapons, and then complicate the situation with troops moving fast, and poor inter-divisional communication, people will make errors. unfortunately those errors are far more serious in the field.

I am just as mad as you are about this. Being killed by the enemy is different than being killed by "allies".

---