Terminator 101 One person is not enough to defend the entire base and attack at the same time. If you play the game right, you don't need to do both.

If you take an early offensive before your opponent can, you don't need to defend because he should be too busy saving his base from whatever you're doing.

Later on, once you have a good lead or whatever, you don't need to attack, just chill out and let him come to you.
