Okay, this is as the topic reads "Bloody Annoying".

Open RenGuard, click Renegade.

I find a server i want to join, i choose and load into the server.

300 ping.

*RenGuard join sound plays*

Reanguard loads the webpage containing server information.

2000 ping.

4000 ping.

5000 ping.

7000 ping.

9999 ping.

*Connection to the server has been lost*

*Disconnected then back to server listing*

This happens 90% of the time. Also understand that i'm using 56k.

I guess my point is... 56k modems can only just handle the torrent of data coming in once you join a regular game, without having to also load a webpage with graphics at the same time.

What i want is either an option to disable loading of server rules/information pages into reanguard all together, or at least an option for LOW quality text based pages only, 3KB at max for the whole page. Or each reanguard client can locally host the images, instead of loading them from the website.

Fix this and i'll be happy, as it is now it can take me three or four times before i can actually get into a server with a decent ping that doesn't throw me out.

Thanks team.
