If you wouldn't live under Saddam what makes you think the people of Iraq liked it?

I never said they liked it. Nor did I imply it. Try reading my posts before posting irrelevant things like this, or putting words in my mouth.

Here's a good example that maybe you can wrap your head around. Remember in Renegade, mission #2? Havoc, against orders, takes off and attacks the beach head. The US did this with the UN. In fact, after Havoc got back to base, he was thrown in jail. His ends did not justify his means, otherwise he wouldn't have been put in temporary confinement.

While only an analogy, it should be clear enough for even YOU to understand.

Gulf War never ended. The Cease fire said the coalition or the UN could resume the war.

Well The US, England , and Australia were the main forces in both wars.
