NeoXDells suck regardless of what you put in them. You should have got custom job or built it yourself. ANd if your rich Alienware is the only brand name computer i would ever buy.

If you are going to buy a pre-built computer, Dell is the best you can get. It's almost as cheap as building it yourself, you get great deals/upgrades AND a warranty. You don't get that with building it yourself. There is absolutely no difference in performance or speed with a Dell than a home-built computer other than the obvious upgrades, all of which can be done to the Dell as well. And if you think Alienware is the only way to go... right.
