It was pushed by warhawks who wanted to give Britain an ass kicking over Britain's mistreatment of America. I'm sure there were those that wanted to conquer Canada for the land, and overall without the push to war it may have been avoided because of changes that happened in Britain. However the war came about mainly because Britain had no respect for American sovereignty.

Check out the timeline on this site. Specifically 1803 - 1812.

Also, I'm still trying to find a source, but I if I remember correctly from American History 1, America lost an insignificant war to Utah in the mid 1800s.
