
Subject: Leaving for Florida tomorrow.

Posted by Vitaminous on Wed, 23 Jun 2004 20:42:00 GMT

View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

Yes, tomorrow at 11:00 A.M. I'm leaving for the state where french is the second most spoken language, Florida.

I'll be in Orlando for a week, we have rented a house there, its nickname is "Blue Moon", we've been there a few years ago at around the same time.

I hope it won't be as hot as I expect it to be during the next two weeks, if so I'll probably just relax in the pool... Heh.

I made no mistake when I wrote "two weeks", the second week we're leaving Orlando to go in the Keys, for those of you who don't know what the Keys are, they're a bunch of islands located at the bottom of Florida, they're REALLY close from Cuba.

So, anybody knows what's going on in Florida at this time of the year? I'm not going to "OMGWTFDISNORWORLDZZZZ" because I hate theme parks and also because I've been there before.

I'll be trying to get on-line with our laptop to upload some photos and browse the forums every once in a while, probably at the end of the day (I'm so going to love AOL, haha).

If you want to see how the Orlando house looks like... Here:
<http://www.vacationcottages.com/florida/blue/>

We will be in a house in the Keys too, but I don't have enough information about it.

Time to have a nice vacation!
