What would be cool is if you could edit game.exe to pickup not just C&C_mapname.mix's but also DM_mapname.mix, ASLT_mapname.mix, CTF_mapname.mix.

Like just make it recognise those formats an others that you can think of.

That would be helpfull!

Why would it need to bother recognising them if the only differences that can be made are in-game?

Ok. You're suggesting game.exe recognise different game modes in map names.

What I'm saying is, why bother? How would it make any difference to the maps or game its-self in any way? The game can already play the different modes fine with the proper CTF/KOTH scripts, and with DM, even easier so. Unless you can somehow incorporate the CTF/KOTH scripts into the game.exe so that anyone can host such a gametype on any official map.

Maybe I'm missing something.

Would you stop with the worthless spam on the forums. All you want to do it tell is "OMG I CAN DO IT AND YOU CANT"

Stop hoarding all this information and release some of it to help with the Renegade modding community.

sniper12345What is ASLT?

it means assault level
it means that nod has to defend a object for 20 minuts or so and gdi must destroy it in that 20 minuts its simple 1 team is attacking the other team has to defend

Like Aircraftkiller wasn't.

I share my information with anybody who has anything good to give in return.

AK doesn't post on the forums with little riddles, etc. If you're going to gloat about your discoveries, at least do it without the damn rymes and 1 word posts.

I wouldn't call "Map_Tiberium_Garden.mix" a discovery.

Should be:

Aircraftkiller, stop hoarding all those E3 2000 models and release some of them to help the Renegade modding community.

Hey, if I released everything that I knew, then my mod wouldn't have anything extra-ordinary that would make you want to get the mod.
