Even if you have a results file how do you know which side actually won?

I thought about using the scores for each side but what happens if GDI are beating on Nods base for ages (while Nod is repairing) then Nod sneaks into the GDI base and nukes the pedestal.

In that case the losing side (GDI) may actually have the higher score.

PS I Just realized that if its a ladder game you can look at the + or - ladder points, what if its not ladder or everyone is GSA players hence have no ladder points?

The Winning Side should be listed first in the Result File, so you know which team won the Game.

The only Problem you got, that the MVP listing is sometimes a bit messed, when the first ranked Player not the MVP Rank is

You sure about that, I thought it was just the side with the highest score was listed first.

Winning side is always on top and always has the higher score.

I made a ladder about a month ago for the ulf, works with both lfds and fds.
You can view it here. ladder.ulfclan.net. Still needs some work though.
