a0000002a's IP address is: 4.60.13?.???
Resolved 4.60.13?.??? to lsanca1-ar13-4-60-13?-???.lsanca1.dsl-verizon.net

I matched the IP to a user in my database (n00bstories) who is one of the administrator/owners of Black Cell. Also anyone who is in #n00bstories often should recognize the host mask.

You'd probably be better to leave 1 or 2 up. They've been pretty empty lately, and 6 is a bit off-putting. Maybe you could host smaller, miscellaneous gametypes on the others...like infantry only, c&r, ctf?

Naming your servers a1 is selling out to gain players though. It would be cool if you changed back. I'll probably receive crap for this, whatever.

I actually thought it was quite funny, although I'm sure it would get old quickly. The whole "a1" thing is pretty silly if you ask me, because once a few people do it, everyone can do it... and then you're back where you started, unless you're intent on renaming your server to stay in front of everyone else.

The pitts uses a proper server though, not bots. Furthermore The-Pitts does not have 20 fake server listings on the main screen. Nether does n00bstories game servers for that matter.

Two valid statements concerning those 'servers':

Aircraftkiller

Quote:The servers are not legitimate, either.....

Blazer
