I was playing on some AOW server on Nod. We were owning GDI. We had destroyed all of their buildings but the AGT and Refinery. I was in an APC, hoping to return to base to get a Sakura for some easy kills before the game ended. I was behind the Refinery. I came around it, behind the War Factory, and BAM, all of a sudden, my APC appeared in the air to the right and behind GDI base. I kept flying away and then reappearing closer. I took tons of screenies, and made this gif. It looks almost identical to what my screen looked like:

I thought I was still in GDI base on everybody else's screen, so I told some GDI players to kill me...but they couldn't find me. Apparently, I was flying around on the others' screens too--I was just too far away for them to notice. I got Volt17 to find me and take some shots of it, but he hasn't e-mailed me the pics yet. I'll post them when I receive them.

Yeah, its a pain in the ass. Just quit and come back in, that way you only use your vehicle and character, not money. Something that also works is getting out of the vehicle and planting timed C4, if you're lucky it'll blow you up.

I've always wondered why they bothered making an interior texture for the apc. Did it show it with the back open in SP or something?

The funny thing is, I've always experienced problems like this on slower computers. Ever since I've saved up and bought nice computer, I haven't ever gotten glitches like this. Maybe it depends on how your computer loads or responds to actions... Just a theory.

I hate that bug. If you hit someone just right, one of you will warp off the map. If your lucky, you'll die and respawn WITH your cash. If your not, well... your'll have to suicide, and you can say, "bye bye" to your credits.

Ya, I had a similar thing happen on C&C_Canyon with a mammy rush, I was leading the rush & we were going around the right side, someone bumped someone else into me & I fell through the ground ...what a great way to waste 1500 creds :stern:

I actually don't have anything to say about the topic, I just noticed j4S[P]'s sig. I found the redvsblue website last week. Really funny stuff. Lopez in love with Shela....the spanish song is a hoot!
