Before I pass out from exhaustion and sleep deprivation (4 AM) I'll post about the Ranger.

The model was made by Sir Phoenixx. The four textures used on it were done by me.

The number 434 on the door designates the 434th company, which is the group of Rangers and Supply Trucks you see running over the Soviet warning sign. It's also the group that Von Esling refers to that you have to protect in the second Allied mission.

The GM serial number refers to General Motors, who builds the Ranger (Jeep Wrangler) in Red Alert for the Allies. Keep in mind that the texture is not completely finalized yet and made be upgraded by myself or Darkblade in the future.

looks nice...however a bit plastic...errr...

Will the front glass be brakeable (like the HoN windows in Ren)?

And shouldnt the gasoline tank or whatever it is called in english on the back be green?

It looks great. Except the front; the grill and the headlights, those just look cartoon painted on.

And well... it's not cable car.

It's made of fiberglass and metal. Of course it looks somewhat plastic. A lot of automobiles do.

Looking good man, much better than the original one for sure!

BTW -- All GM vehicles have the VIN under the windshield on a little metal plate on the dash on the driver's side...

The grill needs to have some sort of trim around it as well, looks like someone just cut it out, lol

I'll see if I can remember, heh. I end up posting this stuff at like 3 AM in the morning, more often than not, so I always have some stupid spelling or grammar mistake in it.

It's petrol in England, short for petroleum obviously.

i double-checked. It's gasoline. Car-fuel
The tank on the back needs to be green and slightly...scratched...
