Why do people even cheat? It makes no sense. Smart people generally know if you are cheating and tell someone who will do something about it. Only a noob would want to use an aimbot, wall hack, big head, etc... because they don't have the skill to handle the skillful head shots and pure skill that good players actually exhibit.

main reason: low self-esteem, they suck at the game and they know it, so instead of trying to get better at the game they resort to aimbots, bigheads, wallhacks so that they can feel better about the way they play....although I'm sure it doesn't help if you get your IP and account banned from every server :rolleyes:

People are dumbasses. They cheat because they suck, they cheat because they think it's funny, they cheat because they have no friends, they cheat because there are nerds who get made fun of and have their day ruined all day long, so they feel the need to ruin our gaming time. The sad part is, people generally do not know what a cheat looks like, sure they can tell a damage hack and such, but an "Big Head" People just are dumbasses about, I get accused of cheating everytime I log on because a noob says "OMFG OMFG YOU KILLED ME ONE SHOT OMFG" never heard of a head shot I suppose. Oh well, we don't gotta worry about it no more RENGUARD w000t

I think people cheat not so much because they suck at the game, but more because it gives them a sense of power. Back before Blaze Regulator and Renguard, people would cheat, and there was really nothing that other players could do about it. Its kind of like rape in that sense - the pleasure comes not out of the sensation, but out of the high that you get from being unstoppable for once in your life. When you cheat you feel like you're in control and there's nothing anyone else can do about it. All those bastards that used to call you a n00b are now as easily killed as a click of a button. That is why people cheat.

I hate cheaters, Big Head is impossible on Reborn. And we will include Renguard support on it.
