
Subject: OT: The Day After Tomorrow
Posted by Vitaminous on Sat, 29 May 2004 18:01:49 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

I've seen it yesterday, which was the release day, it has all the ingredients for a great movie, you'll even find yourself amused sometimes.

I will not give you any spoilers, I will just encourage you to go see it.

(PS: Stay in the theatre to read the credits!)

<http://www.thedayaftertomorrow.com>

Subject: OT: The Day After Tomorrow
Posted by The_Chaotic_One on Sat, 29 May 2004 18:23:07 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

i have seen tons of clips, previews, etc. about this movie. it looks AWESOME. I goin to go see it soon.

Subject: OT: The Day After Tomorrow
Posted by IRON FART on Sat, 29 May 2004 18:31:37 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

Hmmmm.....

I thought it was just a cheesy action movie with a very poor story.

I guess i'll take a closer look then.

Subject: OT: The Day After Tomorrow
Posted by warranto on Sat, 29 May 2004 19:03:08 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

It's an awesome storyline, and great movie all together. Even though the accelerated events are unlikely, the problems created by the event that take place are based in truth.

Subject: OT: The Day After Tomorrow
Posted by Vitaminous on Sat, 29 May 2004 19:09:51 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

Sure, the action is taking a big place in the movie, but you couldn't compare it with the miserable failure that was Matrix: Revolutions.

*Aprime wants his hydrogen fuel now.

Subject: OT: The Day After Tomorrow
Posted by z310 on Sat, 29 May 2004 19:33:06 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

Im gonna see it monday.

Subject: OT: The Day After Tomorrow
Posted by cowmisfit on Sat, 29 May 2004 20:16:28 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

lol Aprime Post count: 1069

Sorry, just had to point out.

Subject: OT: The Day After Tomorrow
Posted by Vitaminous on Sat, 29 May 2004 20:20:01 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

Will you laugh when it'll turn to 89? :sigh:

Subject: OT: The Day After Tomorrow
Posted by Crimson on Sat, 29 May 2004 20:25:07 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

If you see Shrek2 (which I highly recommend), stay for the credits too.

Subject: OT: The Day After Tomorrow
Posted by warranto on Sat, 29 May 2004 21:06:45 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

I wanted to stay, but I was seeing Troy right after

Subject: Re: OT: The Day After Tomorrow
Posted by npsmith82 on Sun, 30 May 2004 01:25:53 GMT

View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

Aprime(PS: Stay in the theatre to read the credits!)
What happens in the credits? I saw the film on friday and we left as the credits started rolling.
PM me if you don't wanna spoil it for people.

Subject: OT: The Day After Tomorrow
Posted by U927 on Sun, 30 May 2004 01:30:54 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

I'm dying to see it, but I'm flat broke.

This summer's movies are gonna rock!

Subject: OT: The Day After Tomorrow
Posted by prox on Sun, 30 May 2004 01:41:01 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

LOL call me a sick mother fucker but I found that movie hillarius. I think the things in that movie will take place in real life sometime, everything points to it, but whats funny about the movie is how stupid some (if not most of us) are.

PS: Yo Aprime can you also send me a PM of what's in the credits, I left the theater as soon as the movie ended

Subject: OT: The Day After Tomorrow
Posted by TheGunrun on Sun, 30 May 2004 01:42:47 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

cowmisfitlol Aprime Post count: 1069

Sorry, just had to point out.

I remeber it when it was 66six on one of my topics. I went to go see it but i saw shreck 2 instead... I had my 4 yr old borther with me so i kinda had to. Funny movie thou and too many gay refrences... Still a movie worth watching. I want to watch the day after tomarow but i can wait a few months for the dvd.

Subject: OT: The Day After Tomorrow
Posted by Vitaminous on Sun, 30 May 2004 01:58:02 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

xC4pRoXL0L call me a sick mother fucker but I found that movie hillarius. I think the things in that movie will take place in real life sometime, everything points to it, but whats funny about the movie is how stupid some (if not most of us) are.

PS: Yo Aprime can you also send me a PM of what's in the credits, I left the theater as soon as the movie ended

Some parts were incredibly funny, it's true.
Like the latin-american debts part,

Subject: OT: The Day After Tomorrow
Posted by prox on Sun, 30 May 2004 02:01:37 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

lol yeah, I was personally laughing my ass off when mexico locked the border because of the Americans sneaking in... "American citizens are literally crossing the 'Rio Grande' over to MEXICO illegally." Haha, good shit, good thing my girl was at private party cause I would've missed some good stuff.

Subject: OT: The Day After Tomorrow
Posted by bigwig992 on Sun, 30 May 2004 03:02:41 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

I just got back from seeing that movie. It's not bad, some parts were cheesey but other than that, it was okay. I cracked up with the whole "Traffic is now flowing smoothly into Mexico, the Vice President struck a deal with Mexico, that will relieve all Latin American debts." And when Sam's friend says "Hey guys! We have a whole section on Tax Law books down here that can be burned!".

Not the bad.

Subject: OT: The Day After Tomorrow
Posted by Crimson on Sun, 30 May 2004 08:03:02 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

I just got back... stayed for the credits and I don't know what I was supposed to see....

Subject: OT: The Day After Tomorrow
Posted by Nodbugger on Sun, 30 May 2004 08:12:51 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

I saw it today also. My and my friends did laugh the whole way though. I still do not know how the Sahara Desert froze.

I'm convinced Michael Moore made the movie.

Subject: OT: The Day After Tomorrow
Posted by cowmisfit on Sun, 30 May 2004 11:24:26 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

TheGunruncowmisfitlol Aprime Post count: 1069

Sorry, just had to point out.

I remeber it when it was 66six on one of my topics. .

His post counts are always wierd, on 9/11 his post count was 911
Im planning on going to the movies with my girlfreind after finals, all depends on what she wants to see but i'll suggest this one.

Subject: OT: The Day After Tomorrow
Posted by warranto on Sun, 30 May 2004 16:00:21 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

Nodbuggerl saw it today also. My and my friends did laugh the whole way though. I still do not know how the Sahara Desert froze.

I'm convinced Michael Moore made the movie.

My and my firends?

It's all about the temperature regulation. The only reason the southern zone of the northern hemishpere was saved was because the temperature fluxuations were minimized because of the sun, and probably the oceans current was relatively maintained around that area (hence why the southern hemisphere wasn't touched -the currents weren't affected.)

Links of interest:

<http://www.ldeo.columbia.edu/res/pi/arch/>
http://www.ldeo.columbia.edu/news/2004/05_26_04.htm

Subject: OT: The Day After Tomorrow
Posted by Vitaminous on Sun, 30 May 2004 17:27:51 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

Why do you always expect something when someone tells you to stay for the credits?

It's just a damn sign of respect!

Plus you could see on what book the movie was based on, incase you'd like to read it.

Subject: OT: The Day After Tomorrow

Posted by npsmith82 on Mon, 31 May 2004 00:25:35 GMT

View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

One thing that really didn't need to be in the film were those russian wolves. I'm in the understanding that they were either a pointless stab at adding more CGI into the film or they wanted to add how it would indirectly effect animals/nature. They could've at least made them run more realistically. The attack dogs from Red Alert ran better ffs.

AprimeWhy do you always expect something when someone tells you to stay for the credits?

It's just a damn sign of respect!

:rolleyes:

If the director was there in the theatre, sure i'd stay for the credits and pay my respects if i enjoyed it, but he's over a thousand miles away swimming in money, no doubt.

Subject: OT: The Day After Tomorrow

Posted by Jaspah on Mon, 31 May 2004 02:16:43 GMT

View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

Maybe they were just buying time for the "super freeze" thingy.

Subject: OT: The Day After Tomorrow

Posted by Vitaminous on Mon, 31 May 2004 03:27:55 GMT

View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

npsmith82One thing that really didn't need to be in the film were those russian wolves. I'm in the understanding that they were either a pointless stab at adding more CGI into the film or they wanted to add how it would indirectly effect animals/nature. They could've at least made them run more realistically. The attack dogs from Red Alert ran better ffs.

Lol, so true.

By the way, if you stay after the credits you'll be able to tell on what book the movie was based on, so if you're a reader, or like to spend some of your free time reading a book like I do, you can try to find it and buy it.

Subject: OT: The Day After Tomorrow
Posted by Madtone on Mon, 31 May 2004 05:02:58 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

Had the book already

Subject: OT: The Day After Tomorrow
Posted by Fabian on Mon, 31 May 2004 16:45:30 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

That was by FAR the funniest movie I have ever seen. People should never bother with comedies again, and just focus on making shitty movies like this.

I'm sure many of you didn't find it funny at all, but when you and a bunch of wise-ass friends are watching it together and making a bunch of wise-ass comments, it's hilarity really shines.

Subject: OT: The Day After Tomorrow
Posted by Crimson on Mon, 31 May 2004 21:26:38 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

The story was shaky at best, and the political message was as blatant as if they ran "Bush sucks" ads every 5 minutes. Perhaps the most obvious satire was how the president in this flick was made to be a bumbling idiot, while when Clinton was in office, Emmerich's president in Independence Day was a hero.

Then we have some ridiculous patchy references to this whole catastrophe being our fault and the "moral" being that the VP was wrong, that we have to be more careful blah blah blah... all the while in the back of my head I'm thinking "They said this happened 10 million years ago... we cause that one too?"

So, dumb story based in pure fiction and political propaganda... but it was cool to watch shit get owned.

Subject: OT: The Day After Tomorrow
Posted by z310 on Mon, 31 May 2004 22:39:25 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

My question is how did the wolves survive the tidal wave? (Btw i just watched the movie)

Subject: OT: The Day After Tomorrow
Posted by warranto on Mon, 31 May 2004 23:25:52 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

CrimsonThen we have some ridiculous patchy references to this whole catastrophe being our fault and the "moral" being that the VP was wrong, that we have to be more careful blah blah blah... all the while in the back of my head I'm thinking "They said this happened 10 million years ago... we cause that one too?"

So, dumb story based in pure fiction and political propaganda... but it was cool to watch shit get owned.

story based in fact, not fiction. Sure, it's fictional; in the sence that it would happen THAT fast, but the science of it is very much true. The basis being global warming (a natural event) causes the ice age. However, it does pose the question "Are we accellerating natural events?"

Subject: OT: The Day After Tomorrow

Posted by Nodbugger on Mon, 31 May 2004 23:31:13 GMT

View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

warrantoCrimsonThen we have some ridiculous patchy references to this whole catastrophe being our fault and the "moral" being that the VP was wrong, that we have to be more careful blah blah blah... all the while in the back of my head I'm thinking "They said this happened 10 million years ago... we cause that one too?"

So, dumb story based in pure fiction and political propaganda... but it was cool to watch shit get owned.

story based in fact, not fiction. Sure, it's fictional; in the sence that it would happen THAT fast, but the science of it is very much true. The basis being global warming (a natural event) causes the ice age. However, it does pose the question "Are we accellerating natural events?"

We are planting trees at an extremely fast rate. Which is getting rid of the effects of all the excess CO2.

Subject: OT: The Day After Tomorrow

Posted by Vitaminous on Mon, 31 May 2004 23:52:38 GMT

View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

It isn't enough and you know it.
Join the tree hugers, beeyatch.

Subject: OT: The Day After Tomorrow

Posted by z310 on Tue, 01 Jun 2004 00:06:14 GMT

View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

But what about the wolves????
??

Subject: OT: The Day After Tomorrow
Posted by Nodbugger on Tue, 01 Jun 2004 00:06:49 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

AprimeIt isn't enough and you know it.
Join the tree hugers, beeyatch.

Did you know the United States has almost 3x more trees than it did 200 years ago?

And yes it is enough. Logging companies do this so they stay in business. So there will never be a tree shortage. And they will eventually even it out.

Subject: OT: The Day After Tomorrow
Posted by Vitaminous on Tue, 01 Jun 2004 00:12:37 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

There isn't only the United-States in this world, have you ever heard of the AMAZONIAN FOREST before? :rolleyes:

Subject: OT: The Day After Tomorrow
Posted by Nodbugger on Tue, 01 Jun 2004 00:13:59 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

AprimeThere isn't only the United-States in this world, have you ever heard of the AMAZONIAN FOREST before? :rolleyes:

Ya and it hasn't gone anywhere!

Subject: OT: The Day After Tomorrow
Posted by rm5248 on Tue, 01 Jun 2004 00:29:10 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

NodbuggerAprimeThere isn't only the United-States in this world, have you ever heard of the AMAZONIAN FOREST before? :rolleyes:

Ya and it hasn't gone anywhere!

Well duh, of course it hasn't gone anywhere, it can just fly off. :rolleyes: But it has SHRUNK!

Subject: OT: The Day After Tomorrow
Posted by Nodbugger on Tue, 01 Jun 2004 00:38:36 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

rm5248NodbuggerAprimeThere isn't only the United-States in this world, have you ever heard of the AMAZONIAN FOREST before? :rolleyes:

Ya and it hasn't gone anywhere!

Well duh, of course it hasn't gone anywhere, it can just fly off. :rolleyes: But it has SHRUNK!

And why do you care so much if it is disappearing? Have you ever been to the rain forest? They suck, a lot.

Subject: OT: The Day After Tomorrow

Posted by SuperFlyingEngi on Tue, 01 Jun 2004 00:47:19 GMT

View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

NodbuggerDid you know the United States has almost 3x more trees than it did 200 years ago?

That's completely wrong.

CrimsonThe story was shaky at best, and the political message was as blatant as if they ran "Bush sucks" ads every 5 minutes. Perhaps the most obvious satire was how the president in this flick was made to be a bumbling idiot, while when Clinton was in office, Emmerich's president in Independence Day was a hero.

Alright, I haven't seen the movie yet, but I will soon, so I'm just judging from what you say here. First off, are you complaining that the movie was too close to real life in your second sentence? Also, I don't think Independence Day really had a political message, what with the President just randomly flying an airplane around and shooting aliens down. The reference there to Bill Clinton is shaky at best. Also, I don't think Bush the dyslexic could handle a disaster like this.

Now, I severely doubt that this would happen like it does in real life, if global warming became severe, lots of crap would still happen. For one, malaria might spread to new places as they become more tropical. Also, an interesting fact is that if a whale walks out of the water on tall legs, it would boil. It's metabolic processes run so hot that it needs to be in ocean water just to stay cool, and the frequently dive deep just to escape heat. If the oceans warmed up, these whales might have to go too deep just to stay cool. Then whales die. And lots of other crap that I don't want to write down right now.

Subject: OT: The Day After Tomorrow

Posted by Nodbugger on Tue, 01 Jun 2004 01:08:35 GMT

View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

SuperFlyingEngiNodbuggerDid you know the United States has almost 3x more trees than it did 200 years ago?

That's completely wrong.

Um...now it isnt you fucktard.

<http://www.dsisd.k12.mi.us/mff/TreeBasics/Trends.htm>

We have less space. But we do have more trees. And 3 million acres are added every year.

Subject: OT: The Day After Tomorrow

Posted by warranto on Tue, 01 Jun 2004 04:13:07 GMT

View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

Tree's don't make much difference until they mature anyways. And that takes about 20-50 years. As for the rainforest and your uh... (resists insulting word) opinion..

Quote:And why do you care so much if it is disappearing? Have you ever been to the rain forest? They suck, a lot.

<http://www.colszoo.org/animalareas/aforest/rainnew.html> <-- Rainforest facts.

Quote:Rainforests are also the richest ecosystems on earth. Scientists estimate that they contain between 50% and 80% of all the Earth's plant and animal species. A typical 4-mile patch of rainforest contains as many as 1,500 species of flowering plants. The rainforest in the South American country of Ecuador has 20,000 kinds of flowering plants. The state of California, a third larger than Ecuador, has only 5,000. And 70% of the plants known to have anti-cancer properties come from the rainforest (National Cancer Institute).

Quote:Environmental concerns: Environmentalists warn of calamity if rainforests are destroyed, Here is a sample of what the side effects of deforestation could be:

It is thought that 25% of the world's species could be lost by the end of this decade. Animals and plants that lived in the rainforests could be lost forever.

Many important resources could be lost. Only a fraction of the vegetation has been tested for medical use. Wild strains of many of the world's staple crops are in danger of being lost.

Natives in the jungle may be displaced, their way of life and culture destroyed.

Greenhouse gases and carbon dioxide contribute to global warming. The burning of rainforest accounts for nearly 30% of the carbon dioxide released in the atmosphere. This could increase. Changes may occur in rainfall and air circulation and radiation from the sun may be greatly increased.

Subject: OT: The Day After Tomorrow
Posted by Nodbugger on Tue, 01 Jun 2004 05:09:46 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

So it is thousands of species in there? So what. We keep their DNA and make new ones when we need them. 90% of the stuff in the rain forest will kill a person. It isn't like we can go in there very often.

Subject: OT: The Day After Tomorrow
Posted by warranto on Tue, 01 Jun 2004 05:17:40 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

I'm not even going to comment on how much of an idiot you are...

Subject: OT: The Day After Tomorrow
Posted by SuperFlyingEngi on Tue, 01 Jun 2004 19:45:52 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

Yeah, the rainforest isn't the same thing as the rainforest you see in Jurassic park. In some cases, you can look at one tree and find more species of ants than you can find in the whole of North America.

By the way, did you know President Bush has been running the most negative campaign in the history of the U.S.? The Washington Post did a research thing on it. So far, he's blanketed the country in 49,000 attack ads.

Subject: OT: The Day After Tomorrow
Posted by Nodbugger on Tue, 01 Jun 2004 19:47:30 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

SuperFlyingEngiYeah, the rainforest isn't the same thing as the rainforest you see in Jurassic park. In some cases, you can look at one tree and find more species of ants than you can find in the whole of North America.

By the way, did you know President Bush has been running the most negative campaign in the history of the U.S.? The Washington Post did a research thing on it. So far, he's blanketed the country in 49,000 attack ads.

well good for those ants.

And who cares? He has also made the most money out of any candidate ever. He can afford to do that.

Subject: OT: The Day After Tomorrow

Posted by SuperFlyingEngi on Tue, 01 Jun 2004 19:49:46 GMT

View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

I said the most negative campaign, not the biggest campaign. Also, a lot of his campaign money comes from corporations promising to give him big sums a couple years ago if they could send in lobbyists to re-write the legislation.

Subject: OT: The Day After Tomorrow

Posted by Vitaminous on Tue, 01 Jun 2004 19:55:37 GMT

View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

warranto!m not even going to comment on how much of an idiot you are...

I TOTALLY agree!

Subject: OT: The Day After Tomorrow

Posted by rm5248 on Tue, 01 Jun 2004 23:50:42 GMT

View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

nodbugger,

Quote:you sir...

are an idiot

Subject: OT: The Day After Tomorrow

Posted by SuperFlyingEngi on Tue, 01 Jun 2004 23:59:40 GMT

View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

dammit No!

Come on people, we were actually having a discussion with some sense of intellectuality. Please, go spam out some other thread.
