I have a virus on my desktop computer that affects the startpage and I have removed it over and over again. Yet it still comes back and the computer is not even running on the internet anymore.

No actually it came from codfiles.com and it goes to a search page for the start page and that pops up an online gambling page.

My brother got that one. I'd tell you how to fix it, but I haven't figured it out yet.

sounds like a browser hijacker...try using CWShredder to get rid of it

<http://ssu.firewebx.com/extras/CWShredder.zip>

be sure to update it before scanning and if it automatically closes run it again and it will change the name in the titlebar to something random because some hijackers auto close popular tools to remove them.

get a program called hijack this it will scan your registry. A bunch of things will pop up. You will be able to tell what the thing is by reading what comes up.

This is my homepage and has been for some time now. Whenever I change it, it changes back after a few minutes...

Anyone else got this homepage?

I had a homepage i couldnt get away for some effing time not to mention phoneweb jacked my toolbar .....

Do you know what i did?

Open CWshredder and delete Everything that starts with 01 ,02 ect... If your IE fucked up reinstall it.(not like all will be lost if you do this) Thats how I get ride of those seemingly impossible hi-jacks Kinda a risk though lol. If you dont want to do it my way go here <http://forums.spywareinfo.com/> and ask the pro's. It also helps to not vist sites you dont trust ex: Porn and warez sites. Also get firefox , IE sucks, <http://www.mozilla.org/products/firefox/>.
