I noticed when you shoot at people they would always Strafe Left. right and Jump Up, and down. But when i shoot I do all of that and CROUCH. Crouch is a very good strategy to use while fighting if your opponent is close or far. if your distance is medium of about 15 or 10 feet, ur done for.

Also I always wondered why my opponent [Either Sakura or Havoc] Points the Ramjet Rifle down straight at the ground, and they still shoot me...How is this possible?

The rifle points down when they are reloading. But as they have their finger on the fire button, the gun will fire as soon as it has ammo. So it will look like they are in the process of reloading, when in fact they have finished and they fired their shot.

The best thing to do with snipers is to get right up close, and break their scrawny necks... it is actually true though, as the rifle is so long...

What really gets to me is when you spot a sniper, and you make sure they know it (I prefer to fire rockets at them) and they STAY THERE!

First sniper rule: don't get caught.

Second sniper rule: if you do get caught, shift yourself sharpish if they just stay there jzin then you are obviously playing in the wrong games.....

The wrong games... I've had this before and it would appear that these sorts are all over the games, I call hillcamping and wage a vendetta against them, but it doesn't work...

Incidentally I've found that if you can get right up to them with a flamethrower you can torch snipers
