I see a few other people have had this problem, but no response yet. Renguard loads normally, yet it has now started listing renguard servers with extremely wrong stats, not to mention it even leaves out the pits and other large rg servers despite logging in and seeing the opposite. I got kicked from the pits because it said I did not have Renguard and I am pissed... well renguard people, why cant i play my favorite servers now huh?

Check if you are greeted with your desired username in the status bar. This is most likley the error, you need to close renegade when you switch your nickname

The renguard stats might be wrong because in some servers they allow people without RG to join.

The pits is having trouble with renguard just now and often when it is turned on there is a mass kick, I wouldn't worry too much about that.

Some servers might say they are RG but aren't.

Have you checked to see if you can join other RG servers?

I have been in other RG servers, some of them have it optional although it does give a message saying if u have renguard or not. For example I visit BC servers often and they used to say you have rengaurd blah blah etc. ,now none of them do that for me. And since I am the only one using Renegade in my house my nick should not be changed, it always greets me as xpontius.
