No offense, WNx. On your server you can kick or ban for what reason whatsoever. Please understand though, that I m a little bit angry.

I am really a fair player who normally wants to communicate with the teammates. Sometimes thats difficult because of language problems. But thats the way it is: we are living in Europe.

I really tried to talk in english and if you check the logs you can see it. But there were some players online who obviously couldnt understand. So I switched to german (if you want I could also talk in french). I received a "ok" from my teammates and we were able to organise our defense.

2 minutes later I was kicked by a mod just because I was talking in german. I was one of the last tanks and I think that was rather unfair.

I apologize for being a little bit rude afterwards. Lets play again without resentiments.

I know that rule, but its ridiculous in my opinion. Renegade is not Battlefield or UT. We dont have thousands of servers. So we must play together, even if we are german or whatever. Why not? As you can read, I am able to communicate in english, but lot of players are not. Teamplay is important in Renegade though.

The thing is that you could basically talk about anything and the mods wouldn't have a clue what you're talking about.
