Believe it or not I am finally contributing something to the Renegade community. You can also contribute to this by submitting advice or questions here for the next one of these I will be making.

Here is the first Renegade crossword which has a difficulty ranking of hard. It has 14 questions in total, and you must use a - in place of spaces. If you can not find the answers check the Renegade review section where the storyline is at, beneath the full review. You will be able to find some answers there, mainly with the different people and characters. The answers will be posted in one weeks time so you should not have to wait long, post here for any questions, suggestions, or problems with this crossword. Please do not post the answers here, you need to give people a chance to do the crossword. Besides if someone wants the answers they will post a reply asking for the answers, and if you know them just private message the person. Check below for the crossword which you can print out.

Remember to use a - in place of spaces

Here is the sample questions, the full thing can be found on my site from the link below.

Across

3. The _____ of Nod

4. _____ is a highly respected mapper of the Renegade community, and does mapping for RenAlert.

6. What is Havoc's real name?

Down

1. _____ is the owner of N00bstories, and owns the official Renegade forums.

2. This cereal is made out of Tiberium.

3. _____ is currently supporting Renegade with their anti-cheat tool, and a soon to be released patch.

The full version is on my site here

How to print: Highlight the information that you want to print, then go to File then press Print. Now for Print Range click selection to print only the highlighted item(s).

There shouldn't be spaces in a crossword...

Yeah, but for Havoc's name and some of the others I need a space or else it's one big word which would probably be more confusing I would think. I will try and do stuff without spaces next time then ok. I can think of alot more questions, but I'm trying to come up with some for new players to the game, cause this one was pretty hard for my brother and dad, I had to give them 3/4 of the answers.

12 across could have different answers... like press-c or press-e.

I could make a comment about 4 across, but I'd probably feel a few pains later in mIRC

Maybe someone could help give me some options of sites so I can pick out which one had it. It was a white layout site, and I think they did all of C&C, The site used PHP Nuke (if that helps any). I can't remember. :\

The crossword is good, but do what z said and change the gfx.

In standard crosswords answers with multiple answers do not leave spaces, but go in the form wordwordword, not word-word-word.

OK, THX. The next one should be much better. For the graphic, I just took a screenshot of the loading process in Renegade. So I'll change the graphic for the next oen. What should it be or have in it? I'll also put answers with multiple words in it as just one word. I thought it would have confused people if I did that, which was what I was going to do at first, but then I decided not to. I guess I should have after all.

Please excuse me for my lack of culture, but in France, I have absolutely no data about tiberios...

What is it?

Tiberios is a cereal that someone made up, it looks like cheerios, but is made out of tiberium.

It says Tiberium infused oat cereal in red, and on the blue ribbon it says Mutagenically Delicious.

Well, I abandoned the site soon after starting it, but here it is (notice the copyright is still 2003, oi).

<http://tiberios.unleashed.ws>

I'll be moving that to be under my main site when I get around to it. Until then, meh, I'll keep working on my main site I suppose.
