This happens more than you think.

Our ship actually rammed on of these and sank it after transiting the Suez canal.

Of all the things you could possibly run into at night, an aircraft carrier is probably the hardest to be hit by on accident.

The hardest you say? That would mean it's easier to run into a flying penis-mobile? Whoa!! I'm not sailing at night anymore!

Assuming they exist, yes.

The only way an aircraft carrier can be punctured, is if a seven-forty seven, with terrorists with bombs strapped to themselves, and michael jackson eating ariline peanuts while ejackulating to a picture of his unborn quadruplets, ram into the side of IT!!!

If it happens that often, what about the terrorist factor then?

They wouldn't go for an aircraft carrier, they would go for the empire state building.

I think the most likely scenario is that everyone on the fishing boat was quite drunk.

Heh, this incident reminds me of a joke

U.S.S. Abraham Lincoln and the lighthouse

This is based on an actual radio conversation between a U.S. Navy aircraft carrier (U.S.S. Abraham Lincoln) and Canadian authorities off the coast of Newfoundland in October, 1995. (The radio conversation was released by the Chief of Naval Operations on 10/10/95 authorized by the Freedom of Information Act.)

Canadians: Please divert your course 15 degrees to the South to avoid collision.

Americans: Recommend you divert your course 15 degrees to the North to avoid a collision.

Canadians: Negative. You will have to divert your course 15 degrees to the South to avoid a collision.

Americans: This is the Captain of a US Navy ship. I say again, divert YOUR course.

Canadians: No, I say again, you divert YOUR course.

Americans: THIS IS THE AIRCRAFT CARRIER USS LINCOLN, THE SECOND LARGEST SHIP IN THE UNITED STATES' ATLANTIC FLEET. WE ARE ACCOMPANIED BY THREE DESTROYERS, THREE CRUISERS AND NUMEROUS SUPPORT VESSELS. I DEMAND THAT YOU CHANGE YOUR COURSE 15 DEGREES NORTH--I SAY AGAIN, THAT'S ONE FIVE DEGREES NORTH--OR COUNTER-MEASURES WILL BE UNDERTAKEN TO ENSURE THE SAFETY OF THIS SHIP.

Canadians: This is a lighthouse. Your call.

Damm, that is the funniest thing that I have ever heard. Telling the lighthouse to change course, Those people on the aircraftcarrier must have been real idiots

It was a joke, not what they actually said!
