well in that time travel thread, there was a lot of stargate fans, and we all discussing about it, kinda.

so i made this thread, to talk about it i guess.

so, what do we all think about the spin off series, Stargate Atlantis, and then its friday, so wait a little longer and both episodes will be shown back to back, first Stargate SG1 series 8... the second episode, and then the third episode of Atlantis...or the other way around whatever.

i think atlantis should be good, i really only like Sg1, but this might turn out awesome with the wraith, and all that.

season 8 will be different, i wonder what's happening with the tok'ra and earth, and what about Ba'al and his fleet, seeming he was going to send it to earth.

but meh, enough of me, start talking! i know a lot of us in the C&C community are fans, Chronojam and asshaze1 from IRC like it, so does blazer (well he gets it lol) and jonwil and others. so talk!

Yeah, that was pretty good. I managed to catch SG-1 and Atlantis last night, although I went to bed at midnight. Very good show, I hope they keep it up.

This is a freaking spin off thread.. Well atlantis looks really awesome. Have u seen the trailer for the next episode? It looks like they use the stargate to go to a ship where the stargate is the only thing separating them from the vacuum of space. How the hell do they get out of that.

The next episode looks kinda odd, It looks like one of their "Puddle Jumper" ships gets stuck in the middle of the stargate, how the hell are they supposed to get all the way through? Do they pull it through or something like that. And what about Anubis on SG1, he's on that frozen world now, I think they're gonna bring him back sometime later.

That's doubtful that they'll bring Anubis back before the end(this is the last season(series if your British)). More likely they'll have a bunch of eps with little snippets about how Bhall is raping the other System Lords and there will be a massive battle royale over Earth with multiple 303s and squadrons of 302s with Thor helping out and everything.

For some reason...the Space channel always stops at the end of season 5 and starts over. It's bullshit, I'm downloading the rest of the seasons now. However I already jumped ahead and watched the first 2 shows of season 8, that was cool.

just finished watching the episode 3 of both series

atlantis is very good and i dont see the point in series 8 bhal should be easy to defeat compared to anubis and the replicators.. so i think this series could be pretty boring ooh btw did anybody notice in series 08 ep 3 that one of the soldiers(the one jack (anubis) zapped in the self destrct control room) was the guy that played the young general hamond when they gated back in time??

kinda confused as to why he is casted :S

Just watched the first 2 episodes of atlantis today. I have to say it's very good, much better than I thought it would be. Too bad we don't get Sci-Fi here yes, i saw the 2 new episodes today, they were good.

Anubis, they will bring back, someone will find the frozen corpse and he will leave it and dial out. Bal, will be harder, if you listen carefully in the first episode of season 8, you hear one of the ambassadors say that that fleet of anubis that he sent, was very small, and that bal was taking over all of Anubis's planets and ships, so bal will be big.

the next atlantis i read up on it at gateworld.com and it says they are in the puddle jumper and they get stuck, and have 32 minutes until the gate closes.

and yeah they like reusing actors, that was the young general hammond. i wanna know what's happening with the tok'ra.

wasn't the tok'ra attack but anubis and nearly wiped them out.. a few escaped and are in hiding again

also i don't think they will be bothered by anubis anymore he's stuck on a planet where it would seem there is no life at all so he cannot get the gate opened and soon he will get annoyed and use his powers and the ancients will come for him

i would like to see what the human replicator has planned for his new robot friend
replicator babys xD

Yeah, because the stupid FOX execs cancelled the show after one season. Even though it was a really good show. With good special effects and intellectual humor. And it's from Joss Whedon, the guy who made Buffy and Angel.

I have been watching Stargate SG-1 since the first episode. I don't really care for the Atlantis series because the original characters from SG-1 aren't in it. I haven't watched the first episode of Atlantis and want to know what it was like?

----Bump----

Well, since it's smarter to just bump this instead of making a new one...

A Stargate game is sceduled to come out late this year. Here are some early pictures...

And here's an early trialer for the game:

Hell, are those ss renders? The first one has to be the most lifelike looking scene I have ever seen in a video game, period

Been following this game and a few Stargate source mods for a while now.

It's being made by some basically unknown Australian game company called JoWood. They made Soldner if anyone liked that game. People had their doubts about them, but I think they're doing an excellent job from what I can see.

It's running on the Unreal 2.5 engine too.

I'm fairly certain that those are all actual screen shots, although I am not positive.

Wrong, Its being made by Perception studios, Jowood is the publisher, jowood is german (i think) they made those yeti games and stuff...

Yeah, seen following this game for ages, since before it was announced, cannot wait.
