Hmmm if it worked with Apache/PHP/MySQL under windows I'd use it on a local server here.

Are there any similar scripts that will do so?

Sounds like a good idea though

I'm sorry but there is no other "script" I know of. I even doubt it's one "script." It's based on an older version of SourceForge, so it's going to be big.

All you need is PostgreSQL along with Apache and PHP. I'm assuming you'll also need the PHP/PostgreSQL bindings and mod_auth. It would most likely be better in the long run to have Mailman, Python and Jabber along with it too, however.

Anyway, for those for you wondering why I want to do this, I will explain. I think installing Gforge is a good idea because:

-People could contribute code without long-term commitment, no one will have to play political games.

-All projects, even unfinished, could be posted. And since the source would be available, people could continue or extend projects.

-We wouldn't have to deal with childish people leaking code and releasing early internal betas and the whining and drama of it.

-It could act as a "neutral" place of meeting and collaboration. And since the source would be available, no one will theorize about massive conspiracies, there would be nothing to hide.

-It would help the community's regular members actually DO something, instead of just complaining, arguing, asking for more features, etc. Also, developers can get useful help from the community, instead of doing everything themselves. It could allow them to remain rested, keeping them from being "burnt out."

I like where you're going with this...

Sad thing is... I have the resources necessary to host this with no extra costs to me. But, I will be seen (forever) as biased even in a medium where bias couldn't exist. However, I doubt there are many people in this community with the influence to make this take off. Maybe Blazer... he's got a server.

Slavik has agreed to do the hosting, though some mirror servers would be nice.

All I have to do is register the domain. However, I don't have a credit card or $100 spare bucks to have a Good-as-Gold account. Because of that, I'll get a cjb.net domain temporarily until I can get a real domain.

I'm going to get on on IRC right now to sort the details with Slav. If anyone wants to join in they're welcome. I'll be in #n00bstories.

BUMP!

Slavik has been very generous. He has not only provided AD FREE hosting for RenForge, he also will be buying the domain! All he asked of me was to refer customers! So, if you need a host, use ihostingcenter.com, his web hosting company! Everyone give Slavik a cheer! (Really) RenForge is coming everybody! Look out and God Bless!

sw33twhy do they like me so much?

Not you, Xptek . . . you were talking about how Xptek did all this bad stuff, and J_Ball said that the folks over at UGIn seem to like him, him meaning Xptek since that was the person that you were talking about.
