Since .993 of RenAlert came out my server has been constantly uploading it to everyone tryign to download it, and I am now, well have been looking for a good webhost for a while now. Here's all I need for it to have.

20 GB harddrive space, mail server (Optional), PHP, My SQL (Unlimited databases), Linux for the OS preferably, and a fast uplaod speed. Badwidth over 500 gb. Cost $30 or less a month. My dad won't let me get a server from <http://www.host-flame.com> since they only have one server hosting multiple sites. I don't think I'm gonna be able to find a dedicated server for my site for cheap, but it's worth a shot. . .

You can get a dedicated from <http://servermatrix.com> for about $80 a month.

Yeah, I know about server matrix, but was really looking for something a bit cheaper, I can't afford that unless people like give me donations, or click the ads on my site. I'll have to wait about 3 months to afford it if I get $100 a month from the Google ads on my site. Ohh well, guess I'll have to wait.

Is there a way I can pay more to get about a 4gb more space?
