There is one unbiased news source. That's C-SPAN.

Fahrenheit 9/11 was indeed filled with footage and sources, but the footage is usually edited or cut-off to change the intended meaning of the deliverer.

Yes, I have. And every time, I have to turn it off in disgust. It's not news. Have you seen Hannity

Like, they'll be replaying Bush's new campaign commercial over and over again and discussing how good it is blah blah blah.

FOX Sucks. It's not news, it's entertainment.

Crimson - I actually enjoyed watching the Democratic Convention on C-SPAN. It's kind of nice to just be able to watch events without having talking heads tell you what to think, whether it be left or right.

I think the real message F9/11 should get across is that war is horrible, and we should only go if absolutely necessary. The graphic footage Moore added really showed that war is not a happy happy joy joy affair.

President Bush wantss to make it seem like this is a largely bloodless war, doing things like not allow cameras to view the coffins of dead soldiers being returned from Iraq.

Perhaps happy happy joy joy was an overstatement, but this administration is trying to cover up the real cost of the war.

We've lost over 900 U.S. Soldiers in Iraq. That's not bloodless. It's not close to bloodless. In World War II, those casualties were terrible, but they had to occur to end the Nazi scourge over Europe. Iraq isn't really a scourge over anything, since they knew we would come kick their ass again if they invaded another country. It's not killing their army that hurts our guys, its occupying their cities and fighting guerilla warriors.

Moore wasn't lying when he added footage of war scenes and war injuries.

Everything they said about Saddam having nuclear weapons was factually incorrect. They were using intelligence from other countries while our own CIA was telling them that the intelligence was a forgery.

hydra1945Firstly, it is largely a bloodless war since only 900 men have died out of 100,000 men stationed there. That's 0.9% of all men stationed there who have died. Hydra, blood should not be measured in what percent of our people died, but how many of them died. We've lost over 900 soldiers to a lie war. That's unacceptable. And we're just going to keep on losing more, since we can't just leave, because the current administration has no real plan for fixing Iraq. Sovereign government, sovereign government, but when will we pull our troops out? Probably not for years, because we can't without having Iraq be destroyed.

Mass graves are a lie. They don't exist. They never did. Only about 5,000 Iraqis died during Saddam's regime. And last week, the number came out that the number of Iraqi civilians killed is more like 36,000. But, SURPRISE, this administration hasn't released any numbers about casualties itself.

First off: Not everyone who disagrees with the war is a liberal. I don't support the war because it was illegal. But that certainly doesn't make me a liberal.

You have to understand: with a Republican in office, you HAVE to expect the left to criticize everything he will do. If it were a Democrat in office, the positions would be completely switched and nothing would be any different save the people who are labelled "cynical".

As far as the whole "democrat vs. republic" thing goes, you should commend the valor and haste of your opponents to be able to point out possible flaws in your actions before, during, and after you do them. Not all the criticism is destructive, although it is often taken that way.

Quote: You have to understand: with a Republican in office, you HAVE to expect the left to criticize everything he will do. If it were a Democrat in office, the positions would be completely switched and nothing would be any different save the people who are labelled "cynical".

Couldn't have said it better myself- wait, I HAVE said it myself. Some people just can't accept that sometimes both sides are just as screwed up.

I was absolutely 100% pro war- I still am. However, I dislike how it has been handled- more specifically, I think the media has been allowed to report on stories that, frankly, should not be common knowledge. It has been my opinion for some time that the war would be going a lot more smoothly if reporters were told from the start that they were not permitted to report on certain events, persons, or places. For example, allowing a reporter to travel along with troops going into battle- live on international television the whole time. There are some things in this war that I feel I and every other US civilian should not have known about.

Continuing on the media thing, I disagree with how war reports are handled. Every time there are casualties, all the major networks gobble it up, stamp out a flashy title, and report it as "the worst attack since (insert date here)." Reports like that can, and do, give people false impressions about what is really going on over there- from the way the war is reported, nobody would even know if we're winning. Hell, even the victories are reported as if they were failures- "US forces bombed (insert location here), locals are protesting." Nevermind the cache of weapons, or insurgent hideout, or whatever that the attack was directed at; positive reports don't get ratings.

That's what I think is fucking up this country. Free press is wonderful, but I think the media is mistaking free press for absolute power to do whatever the fuck they want. National security and the right to privacy are taking a backseat to ratings.

Quote: However I do understand that you must have democrats and republics for there to be a democracy, and we need both.

Wrong. The last thing this country needs are more people who believe there are only two sides to an issue.

Oh, it was no mistake. They found weapons of mass destruction, and they still have a lot left to search (do any of you have any idea how easy it is to hide a couple thousand liters of anthrax agent in a freakin sand desert the size of California?).

Which weapons have they found? A couple Sarin Gas canisters? Those are not weapons of mass destruction. They're weapons of it's-been-a-whole-year-but-finally-something-with-chemicals-in-it-exploded-in-Iraq. I can't see how we've been occupying Iraq for a year and still have a lot left to search.

And knight, I can safely assume that John Kerry won't lie about going to war with another country that we should not be going to war with.

I don't support the war because it was illegal.

Tell me how going after someone who aided the murder of 3000+ Dead american citizians is illegal??? Or by going after a son of a bitch who threatens us with weapons of mass destruction for 16+ years and used them on his people and threats to use against his neighbor nations is illegle? Tell that load of bullshit to the family's who know those who died on 9/11, im sure they'll understand. :rolleyes:

There are mass murderers in prison. Would it be legal for me to walk in there and put a bullet in one of their heads?

A drug dealer downtown is dangerous. Can I drive-by his ass? Is that legal?

hint: morally right != legal

Cause Saddam had so MUCH to do with 9/11 ... oh, wait.

We've already got a dumbass arguing your point of view (nodbugger). And this knight1b idiot looks like he wants to jump in and get pwned too. Don't add your own idiocy to the mess, Quote:I can safely assume that John Kerry won't lie about going to war with another country that we should not be going to war with.

Careful there, engi. Assumptions have this nasty habit of getting people stuck with choices that, in hindsight, they realize they should have thought about more. If you're so uninformed about your candidate that you must make assumptions about him, should you really be supporting him? Or should you instead try to find out more about Kerry as a person, and figure out what he'll really do in office. I certainly hope you're not naive enough to believe that a politician will keep all his promises when the election is over- Bush didn't, nor did Clinton, or Bush the elder, or Reagan, or Carter, or anyone else before them.

I originally supported Bush. I read up on him a bit, paid close attention to his actions in office... now I realize that neither Bush nor Kerry would be my first choice for President.

Uninformed voting is worse than not voting at all- you might put someone into office who you really don't want running the country.

cowmisfitDon't tell me what to do you nub, i don't have to listen to you , im not your bitch and your not my master.

Alright, cocksucker, lets dance.

First, as you seem to have a poor grasp of the English language, here's a quick fix to your statement:

cowmisfitDon't tell me what to do, you nub; I don't have to listen to you. I'm not your bitch and you're not my master.

Now, by "nub" I assume you mean "noob" and are just an idiot. And while I'm not your master, you just made yourself my bitch.

You came into an argument that was already underway, you spouted some stupid drivel and then seem surprised when you're told to go fuck off? First, you didn't even bother to read anything that was written by other people, or you would have known that we've already established that:

- a. It was illegal, and
- b. Just cause Saddam was bad, that doesn't make it right.

Now, perhaps the trouble here again lies with your (obviously) poor grasp of the english language; due, no doubt, to the fact you didn't pay attention in school because your anus was so sore from your father fucking you at night.

Be that as it may, I'm moving on to what I will generously call your "next point."

cowmisfit You're a jackass for even comparing 9/11 to a drug dealer or murder in prison, just a plain jackass.

Interesting. What would you call killing a bunch of people? Cause I would call it "mass murder." Or is it your opinion that the rules can change based on how "big" of an offense it is?

If a person only kills 10 people, the police have to capture him, but if he kills 20, can they then bomb his house? Can I?

Apparently, bitch, you fail to grasp a simple, yet potent, analogy. Welcome to the world of being an adult. Just cause you want something to happen does not make doing it legal.

Now, as I know you probably either didn't read or didn't understand what I wrote, the obligatory flame:

You're a little piece of shit. You're an idiot, and worse than that, you're an idiot who thinks we care about what you think.

Guess what, we don't.

In fact, we only respond to you in the hopes that you will recognize your idiocy for what it is and decide to kill yourself in an inventive way (I suggest wrapping piano wire in a sliding noose around your neck, tying it to a chimney, and jumping off a roof; hanging, and perhaps even decapitating, yourself) so that we can gain some amusement from your otherwise pointless and annoying existence.

However, as the odds for that are slim, I will at least gain some small measure of satisfaction from knowing that not only do you have to continue your sad and meaningless life, but you also cry yourself to sleep at night, trying not to hurt your bruised and bleeding anus anymore than it already is after being ravaged by whoever decided to recently make you his bitch.

Fuck you, die.

You see, I have no care for what a noob like yourself has to say. As for killing myself, not gonna happen I'm not gonna take the easy way out ever, especially because of what some fucktard that lives a thousand miles away says.

I think by telling me all of that, your only confessing things that you feel and do, are you reaching out for help young man??

You just took this topic completely off course from politics, to urging me to die and commit anal sex acts, that's kinda funny.

Everyone does not feel that way about me, I'm sure quite a few hate me, because I am a cocky ego driven son of a bitch and I know it. But I am not a little bitch and will back down or give out people as someone of your character would. I may call people assholes and such, but I would never tell someone to do something like kill themselves, that's just wrong and out of line. If you respect me, I respect you and will be one of the nicest people you could ever know, if you disrespect me and think you're gonna get by with calling me a name, I'll be the meanest son of a bitch in the world.

May God have mercy on your soul after what you just said.

P.S: nub, n00b, noob all same thing, you're a moron just for pointing that out. :rolleyes:

Alright, bitch, let's take a look at this post. I've taken the liberty of highlighting and underlining examples of your fucktardedness; I hope you appreciate it.

cowmisfit You see, I have no care for what a n00b like yourself has to say. As for killing myself, not gonna happen I'm not gonna take the easy way out ever, especially because of what some fucktard that lives a thousand miles away says.

Are you sure? I really hope you'll reconsider.

cowmisfit I think by telling me all of that, your only confessing things that you feel and do, are you reaching out for help young man??

Yes, it's true. I'm confessing. I was there when your daddy raped you in your ass. I was busy burning your teddy bear though, so I'm surprised you remembered me.

cowmisfit You just took this topic completely off course from politics, to urging me to die and commit anal sex acts, that's kinda funny.

Actually, I was only urging you to commit suicide. I wasn't urging you to "commit anal sex," I was just commenting on your experiences in it.

cowmisfit Everyone does not feel that way about me, I'm sure quite a few hate me, because I am a cocky ego driven son of a bitch and I know it

... Although, you have very little to be egotistical about ...

cowmisfit But I am not a little bitch and will back down ...

Good. Now back down.

cowmisfit ... or give out people as someone of your character would. I may call people assholes and such, but i would never tell someone to do something like kill them selves, thats just wrong and out of line. If you respect me, cowmisfiti respect you and will be one of the nicest person you could ever know, if you dis respect me and think your gonna get by with calling me a name , i'll be the meanist son of a bitch in the world.

Bring it, bitch. You gonna be mean to me? Oh, I'm shaking in my boots.

cowmisfitMay god have mercy on your soal after what you just said.

P.S: nub, n00b, noob all same thing, your a moron just for pointing that out. :rolleyes:

And you're a moron for ending all your posts with a eye-rolling smiley face.

I am sick and tired of idiots like you thinking that just because they are breathing they have the right to inflict their opinion on us. This is America; you can have your opinion, but keep it to yourself. Once you learn to spell and use proper grammar, then perhaps I'll take what you have more seriously.

But I doubt it. Your opinions, like your posts, show that you have put such little time and thought into them that to even entertain the notion that they might be valid actually lowers my IQ. Fortunately, I had a few spare points that I wasn't really using at the time (yay, Ohio!) so I was able to read it.

The drivel you (and others) continue to claim is not just a valid opinion, but is actually "TEH TROOF NO AN OPONION!!!11" has finally wearied me enough that I am no longer attempting to correct you.

Instead, I'm just requesting that you have a Coke, a smile, and shut the fuck up. Sit down, shut up, and let those of us with the capacity for higher thought debate the issues.

Bush may not be the smartest person to ever sit in the Oval Office, but you make him look like a regular Einstein.

Enjoy your miserable life, bitch.

You know, a good friend of mine once said that Liberals are known to be more emotional, and that Republicans are known to be logical thinkers. You, my simple "I see the world in two shades" friend, could not be more of a liberal by that definition.

I want to make something very clear to you, and everyone else who seems to think that this world is governed by "what you think is right": YOUR MORALITY DOES NOT ABSOLVE YOU FROM THE LAW.

Saddam Hussein had absolutely nothing to do with September 11th. No one could make the validated conclusion before 19 March 2003, and no one can make that claim now. The entire fucking point is utterly moot. If FOXnews told you otherwise, I highly suggest you start looking at other, or multiple news networks to corroborate.

I think you're going to realize that international law doesn't care what happened when Saddam said "omgf i h8 u guys i h8 u" in 1990. As for the Russian informant ordeal -- well, I guess you guys were played by the Kremlin, weren't you? Did you ever find all the imminent tools Iraq had planned on using on you? I mean, wouldn't FOXnews just divebomb on that? As for using weapons of mass destruction on the Kurds: What gives you the RIGHT, the LEGAL right to go and drop the mother of all coup d'etats on his nation without permission from the United Nations? Your constitution? HA. Show me where it says "In the case that a sovereignty uses military force on another sovereignty, we, the United States, are hereby given the exhaulted right to go and fuck them up and play God with their country and government".

Guess what kid. I don't give a rat's ass about the United States "international policy". As a Canadian, I'll recognize the actions of the United States on an international level in terms of the United Nations. Here's the clincher: Your president is a terrorist for what he did to Iraq. No, I'm not talking about all the humanitarian responsibilities he was OBLIGED to distributing. No way. He is a terrorist for his unlawful coercion of the Iraqi government -- however terrible it was-- without explicit and direct permission from the United Nations. Like it or lump it kid, you guys signed the Charter, and so did Iraq. You're BOTH under those laws and nothing says in the Charter gives the United States the world to play with and the legal right to police it.

Oh, and just in case you forgot: Usama Bin Laden thought what he was going was good too. So did the 19 men in those planes. Take a wild guess who does too.
