These are the results of the current poll. 777 users have voted so far.

There's been a huge pack of mods released in the last few weeks. Which one are YOU currently playing?

Renegade Alert 0.993b
55%
Allies Revenge 5.0
5%
Blitzkrieg 2 v037
13%
CnC Holland
7%
ALL of the above!
4%
None; I hate mods!
15%

LOL, it has to suck having your "mod" tallied lower than "None; I hate mods!"

I find it refreshingly ironic that for all the whining about how Generals "Ownz" Renegade and its community, there's more RA players than ALL of the Generals "mods" combined... Go figure.

Unless Generals is being modified to REAL C&C then the mods aren't that good.

Most of what are considered the "good" Generals mods havent been released yet. TrueWar2, Call To Arms, Energy are all yet to be released and most Total Conversions arent finished. Perhaps the poll will read a little differently once they are released.

Still have to ask the question why is RenAlert even in the Poll, i thought it was a separate game, not a mod...Go Figure.

I didn't make the poll, for starters. Planetcnc.com did.

Second, the poll question says "There's been a huge pack of mods released in the last few weeks. Which one are YOU currently playing?" This rules out Reborn, because it was released about nine months ago. Not within the last few weeks.

so this also rules out RenAlert becuae it was released last november correct ?
it has been updated in the past few weeks but that doesnt count as a mod release

That poll isn't really valid. It doesn't represent the average person who visits pcnc because Ack told everyone on the RenAlert forums to go vote for RenAlert. This means that a huge flock of people who might not normally have voted, went over to cast their vote for RenAlert. Granted, RenAlert most likely would have won anyway, but not by that kind of a landslide.

I'm sure people in the Generals mod fourms did the same thing. so yes, RenAlert really is winning by a landslide.

The entire point of it was to vote for what you are playing. 98% of the people who visit my forum play the game, and thus will vote for RA.

It's completely accurate. If people don't care enough to vote for Generals garbage, then that sounds like a personal problem to me.

Why are you sure of this? Is there ANY evidence at ALL that you have that can point to this conclusion?

The poll is biased. Period. Aircraftkiller, your reason for saying it's completely accurate is logically flawed. How do you figure that people "don't care enough"? It's much more likely that people supporting other mods on the poll didn't know about the poll. Of course, you made sure that didn't happen for RenAlert by advertising it and commanding all your loyal sheep over there to go and vote.

You obviously miss the point of the poll, it's not about fairness, or about your bullshit comments about why you dislike me... It's about what you're playing, and obviously over 300 people voted for RA because that's what they're playing.

Then take it that way and stop trying to make a big issue out of something that you admittedly care little for.

It's not fair because the rest of them are getting clobbered. It is quite possible that we have that same proportion of players online compared to Generals "mods" and that's the way it should be.

I am. But you aren't. You shouldn't, and nor should anyone else. The poll is retarded because you caused it to be biased. I care little for the poll; that is correct. But I what I do "care" for is people being misguided and thinking that RenAlert is the only thing out there C&C related that's worth playing.

I hope you realize that we were at 45% and above before I posted anything about the poll. I never caused it to be biased, either. I do not control the actions of anyone but myself. If people choose to vote for something, they'll do it. Whining about it is pointless because the entire reason the poll is up is to find out who is playing what, and if the RA players vote, it gives an accurate statistic as to who plays RA compared to the laziness or lack of players in Generals' community.

No one is misguided by thinking RA is the only thing worth playing. Some might say you're misguided for even believing that people think that, or that you're on some kind of crusade that might change someone's mind about what they believe. You're wasting your time...

You are right, however, that I am wasting my time. There is no convincing you since you are as arrogant as a mule...stuck in your own flawed logic.

How does the poll show laziness of other mod supporters? If I don't visit Planetcnc.com that makes me lazy?

You know what? Forget it. You win. I don't care to argue this anymore.

I personally think this topic was only made to brag about ren alert. The mod is good but you shouldnt be an asshole taking advantage of the less fortunate.

AircraftkillerLOL, it has to suck having your "mod" tallied lower than "None; I hate mods!"
Hmmm.... Not really. Considering the modding of RTS is not widespread and not many people play it. Not to mention people being frustrated with Generals. It says absolutly NOTHING for a mod if more people don't like mods at all than people that like that certain mod.

AircraftkillerI find it refreshingly ironic that for all the whining about how Generals "Ownz" Renegade and its community, there's more RA players than ALL of the Generals "mods" combined... Go figure.

Well, I don't. Considering the following few things:

1. It's a well known fact that FPS mods are played much more than RTS mods. RTS modding is not yet a mainstream idea, although it might seem as such in a mainly RTS community such as the C&C community.
2. Not noticing much whining anywhere. At least not about Generals owning Renegade... and certainly not in the past year or more even. Though, being ACK, you might be talking about stuff that was going on two years ago.
3. This poll does not say how many people play any of the mods. Hell, 55% of 777 voters is 427.

And by no means are there so many players for RenAlert.

I guess I figured it out, no?
